

The proposed rule-making to require the recording and retaining of all programming would place a heavy technical and financial burden upon the small-town broadcaster that would never dream of airing anything obscene and has no record of any wrong-doing. It seems a case of throwing a broad blanket of regulation over all, when it is only a few large market stations creating the problem. A better solution would be to require those suspect shows/ and stations to retain such programming.

Francis Nash
General Manager
WGOH-WUGO Grayson KY